

Frontline Technologies to represent Agfa CTP consumables and ECRM equipment in New Zealand

10 June 2009, Auckland, New Zealand — Frontline Technologies and AM International are pleased to jointly announce Frontline Technologies' acquisition of Agfa CTP consumables and ECRM CTP equipment business from AM International.

Ian Wood, managing director for AM International says, "With an ever changing business environment, and the growing popularity of digital technology, a decision has been made to exit the competitive offset CTP market. By repositioning and adding consolidated focus to our growing digital, finishing and narrow web businesses, this move will further enhance AM International's sales and support capabilities."

Wood also says "Whilst it has been important for us to make these changes, it is equally important for us to ensure that our Agfa and ECRM customers are looked after. And for this reason we are pleased that Frontline Technologies have taken the Agfa and ECRM products onboard. Frontline Technologies' reputation for excellence, and nationwide sales and support structure will position them well in doing so."

Craig Paul, general manager for Frontline Technologies says, "From Frontline's perspective this is an exciting acquisition that provides a natural progression for our organisation. The Agfa CTP consumables and ECRM CTP equipment products provide an excellent fit, and will add a complimentary range of market leading products to our current portfolio."

The new distribution structure is effective 15 June 2009. Agfa consumables and ECRM equipment customers will receive an introductory pack further explaining these changes.
